That's not a reasonable view. Failing to win statewide in Iowa and Ohio in this year is the proof in the pudding. Trump's racism has its hold on them. Reality. Michigan, Wisconsin governors flipped. Ohio GOP won by 4. Iowa GOP won. It's not the same

Jon Ossoff lost in #GA06, but helped mobilize Democrats in the district to topple Handel with the incredible Lucy McBath. You can't erase Democratic losses of a decade in one election, but it's how you start.

And it's stupid. These people don't understand the huge victory the midterms were given the massive gerrymandering that is our district maps. And, anyone who compares this midterm in less than favorable terms to the R's gains in 2010 especially don't understand that.

I asked Kathleen Rice - a leader of the Dem anti-Pelosi movement - if she's concerned this fight will show their party in disarray. "It was not as successful as some hoped it would be, we didn't pick up as many seats as we thought we were going to get," she said of the midterms

If Mueller has specific evidence that shows Assange's motivations for releasing those emails were not journalistic but to harm a presidential candidate & interfere in our elections, this has nothing to do w/ free press & everything to do w/ malicious foreign actors.

When what people want is further to the left than the Dem party platform, then the candidates who endorse far left policies will easily win primaries. And in some blue-leaning areas, they have done so.

This would mean military ballots would not count. And of course it would mean that we just ignore votes. Which is insane.

> Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
> The Florida Election should be called in favor of Rick Scott and Ron DeSantis in that large numbers of new ballots showed up out of nowhere, and many ballots are missing or forged. An honest vote count is no longer possible-ballots massively infected. Must go with Election Night!

People thought I was crazy to give up last 14 months of my life volunteering for Beto after work (full-time day job!) & weekends to the tune of 50+ hours a week. If you read that email—you will get a sense as to why I did it and why I don't regret a second. Ready to do it again.

Top me, this is pretty scary for Democrats. If you assume it's similar in CD25, you could be talking about a 10 pt shift among 10% of the state electorate. And that happens to roughly line up with the GOP overperformance, compared to Trump, in Miami-Dade

Lots of overthinking, imho.

It's hard to describe the intense devotion here on the ground for Beto.

His presence evokes something in between the carnal desire Bill Clinton did and the intellectually worshipful longing Barack Obama did.

Sherrod is great, but he doesn't do that.

7 8 97

Leah McElrath @leahmcelrath · 11 Nov 2018

I've used "authenticity" and "charisma" to try to describe it but those are lacking.

Sherrod and others arguably have one or both of those.

But Beto has is that undefinable "it" factor. And the smarts and rhetorical talent to go along with it.

Friends, Dems likely won Arizona and came within a few points in Texas and Georgia. Let's make sure these are in play in 2020 and if they are, the GOP will be playing a lot of defense. We can truly transform this country.

This is Trump's way of "Punishing" Acosta for being persistent in asking his questions! Trump's out of control and must be put back in his place! Freedom of the Press must prevail! The assistant should never have grabbed the mic 🎤 out of his hand! That's not cool to do!

Can you imagine if the president called a press conference and not one journalist showed up to ask questions or be made a fool of?

Diwali symbolises the spiritual "victory of light over darkness, good over evil and knowledge over ignorance."

Let's hope America votes away ignorance on Tuesday.

Happy Diwali, everyone.

I don't get the fear. An American is someone who believes in freedom & equality. There is no American "color". In the beginning we were mostly European because Europe was the heart of the Enlightenment. Our goal was to spread our freedom to the rest of humanity. We're succeeding.

This is obvious voter suppression and if the media amplifies it, they are aiding and abetting his voter suppression.

I love the way Donald uses his evil wizard powers to magically know that a) people are voting illegally, and b) that these illegal voters (that only he can magically see) are voting against him.

Well, okay, it's not just DJT – @KrisKobach1787 has similar evil wizard powers.

How many Democratic challengers – not just liberals, but moderate Dems too -- are refusing corporate PAC money.

Some VERY good indicators in TN. Early vote:

18-29s: Up 767% over 2014
First time voters: up 900+% over 2014
Women: up 8%

Plus bright blue Memphis and Nash made up almost half of the early vote. Don't bust out the champagne yet, but we're in this FOR SURE.

Don't be naive. The vast majority of political ads on both sides are hyperbolic bs. I'm not defending Trump. My point is clear. Instead of the left pointing out that Trump's ad is false and making a policy distinction, the knee jerk reaction is "racism".

The generic battle is better for Dems among likely voters. That's unusual. And a sign of Dem enthusiasm.

If you can, help canvas today. Voter contact in the next 3 days is critical to bring out Dem voters to the polls.

I'll take a split like we got in the 06 midterms.

hi neera, we should invest in a true single payer plan b/c health care is a human right. When something is made a public good I shouldn't be able to opt out individually b/c it serves our community. Like courts, defense, schools. We all reap the benefits. Don't you agree?

Alby Forti et Fideli 2020 @albyselkie · 1 Nov 2018

We should but when you talk about raising taxes—regardless of long term benefit—support for M4A drops like a lead balloon. Most of the nation does not think like us & that ■ why compromise that comes as close as it can to our objectives ■ so important.

Since the DCCC actively encouraged candidates not to talk about single-payer or M4A, and backed a lot of safe D races, Neera's tweet here is trying to suppress support for those ideas. Meaning she's actually against universal healthcare.

How is this not a violation of the Hatch Act six days before the election?

> Administrator Seema Verma @SeemaCMS
> Did I get your attention? Good. Medicare for All isn't a joke. It's a multi-trillion dollar drain on the American economy that will bankrupt future generations. It's government controlled health care that will strip choice away from millions. It's a bad idea. And it IS scary.

Seema Verma is scum, but I don't think that's a Hatch Act violation because her words are technically policy, not politics.

Now if she had said, say, "Democrats want to implement Medicare for All, vote GOP to stop them," then she might have a legal problem.

Sure, but intent is clear here. I know this is whataboutism but if someone from the Obama admin had done this the GOP wouldn't hesitate to at least make the charge. It speaks to the total lack of accountability & that we're at a place where we don't expect the GOP to obey law.

How do pollsters account for new voters? Can they? Seems like this might be an across the board error?

Tom Bonier @tbonier

Well over 200,000 people who have NEVER voted in any election before now have already cast a ballot in Texas. The state with the second highest number of first time voters, CA, has only 78,000. Keep that in mind as you assess the polls in Texas.

In Texas' largest 15 counties, turnout in 2018 early voting thus far has surpassed TOTAL turnout for the 2014 midterms. 90% of counties are on track to meet or exceed 2012 t/o, but most will fall short of 2016. Can't overstate how crazy this level of engagement is for a midterm.

What. The. Hell. People may want to focus on how a Republican senator is embracing a racist congressman who is so racist that the NRCC chairman in charge of his reelection disavowed him. Cruz embracing a racist is actually shocking.

You know that what matters is enforcement. You think ICE won't enforce that executive order? You sure the current SCOTUS (or one where Trump gets to nominate another justice) won't change the interpretation?

Perhaps immigration or legal reporters should cover this southpaw @nycsouthpaw

This NYT story reproduces a lie in its second paragraph. Birthright citizenship is the norm throughout the Americas, including in Canada and Mexico. In its 3rd paragraph, the story asserts the existence of unclarity where there is in fact broad consensus.

Birthright citizenship is best for countries composed of indigenous people and immigrants. Look at the map. There's a very good reason why birthright citizenship is often called "New World Citizenship".

The fact that virtually all D candidates, with only a few exceptions such as @AndrewGillum are choosing to ignore these Trump provocations & stick to their knitting on health care is a defining late-stage choice for Democrats. Is it strategy or cowardice, or both? twitter.com/BenjySarlin/st…

Jim Acosta @Acosta

The founders set up the constitution so the president can't do what he's proposing to do with birthright citizenship. It's a stunt, like sending the troops to a border for a non-existent invasion.

Political theater. People forget Trump is a TV guy. He got his market research & made the pivot to be tougher on brown people. Robert Bowers killed 11 people since Trump wasn't doing enough about immigrants coming to the US.

Trump used Robert Bowers as market research. He murdered 11 people at a bris in a Jewish synagogue over refugee assistance because Trump wasn't doing enough so Trump decided to say he will end birthright citizenship & send 14,000 troops to stop the brown people from coming to US

Another relevant comparison: King's district has a 538 partisan lean index of R +23, which is exactly the same as Chris Collins's district (R +23). And a bit less than the state of Alabama (R +27). Ds can compete against very bad candidates in districts like that in a blue year.

For example, normal midterm is prob +3-4 GOP here. The turnout we've seen so far means it likely tops out at +2. Keep piling on & it gets closer to parity. So for their win, they want to slow/stop/depress that growth. Make more sense? 2/2

This is a fascinating point - think about this in the context of Florida @steveschale

Nate Cohn @Nate_Cohn
That's why you really have to focus on the level of the turnout in the mail voting states. The pace of early returns is so high that the GOP actually needs to bank on what's happening stopping, not continuing

Yup. Take Florida. ~ 3.5 m 2014 voters left....GOP has 200k more than us. That's how their math works. But as turnout grows, everything beyond that is more democratic than the core vote, and at some point, the models change.

He's terrible.

Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump

A very big part of the Anger we see today in our society is caused by the purposely false and inaccurate reporting of the Mainstream Media that I refer to as Fake News. It has gotten so bad and hateful that it is beyond description. Mainstream Media must clean up its act, FAST!

Yes

Voisin/The Washington Post)

A North Carolina man was arrested Sunday after he walked into a popular pizza restaurant in Northwest Washington carrying an assault rifle and fired one or more shots, D.C. police said. The man told police he had come to the restaurant to "self-investigate" a false election-related conspiracy theory involving Hillary Clinton that spread online during her presidential campaign.

I've been thinking about this too, but the other aspect of the comparison is that a national version of the VA '17 map would have Dem tidal waves in suburbs and a bunch of Dem pick-ups in districts that were carried by Clinton...but otherwise a map that looks a lot like '16.

This makes no sense. You could make an actually persuasive case that the Founding Fathers would object to a President elected by a lot of non college educated voters as Trump was. That doesn't make the objection right today.

Patrick Ruffini @PatrickRuffini

Someone winning the Presidency with supermajorities in large states like California and New York is exactly the scenario the Founding Fathers were looking to prevent when they instituted the Electoral College.

There is no narrowing. Every "likely voter" poll in the last two weeks shows the Dems up between 7 and 11 %. The Fox poll, just a day before the NBC poll shows the Dems up by 7, so the lead is actually GROWING.

Hours before CNN gubernatorial debate, and after the network released a widely-criticized poll showing Gillum up by double digits, DeSantis team has this to say:

> "This poll [illegible] as amusing as it is suspicious in that it was released hours before [illegible] debate between the two candidates – clearly meant to give the advantage to Andrew Gillum," said Stephen Lawson on behalf of the DeSantis for Governor campaign. "But while CNN is clearly working hard to craft far left polling data with results that are pure fiction, Ron DeSantis is ready to face Mr. Gillum on behalf of all Floridians who stand against his billion-dollar tax increase, anti-law enforcement agenda and record of suspicion and corruption."

16 days til the election. It's not enough to vote this year, you need to bring all your friends and family to the polls as well. And volunteer to help get out the vote. There are competitive races everywhere -- make a plan to help. Feel free to dm me with any questions

Also, on the day President Trump came to Elko to rev up the base and drew more than 8,000 people, guess how many people went out and voted in Elko County on Saturday? 435.

This. Stop focusing on the arms sales; start focusing on Trump's intake of large amounts of Saudi cash. He's a bully to Canada and Europe, but a pushover with Russia and the Saudis...both of whom have essentially oligarchs who have significantly profited Trump Inc

Paul Krugman @paulkrugman
The whole thing about arms sales to SA creating jobs is a con. Aside from the claims being totally bogus, the billions in arms sales aren't what matters to DJT; it's the millions the Saudis deliver to him personally 5/

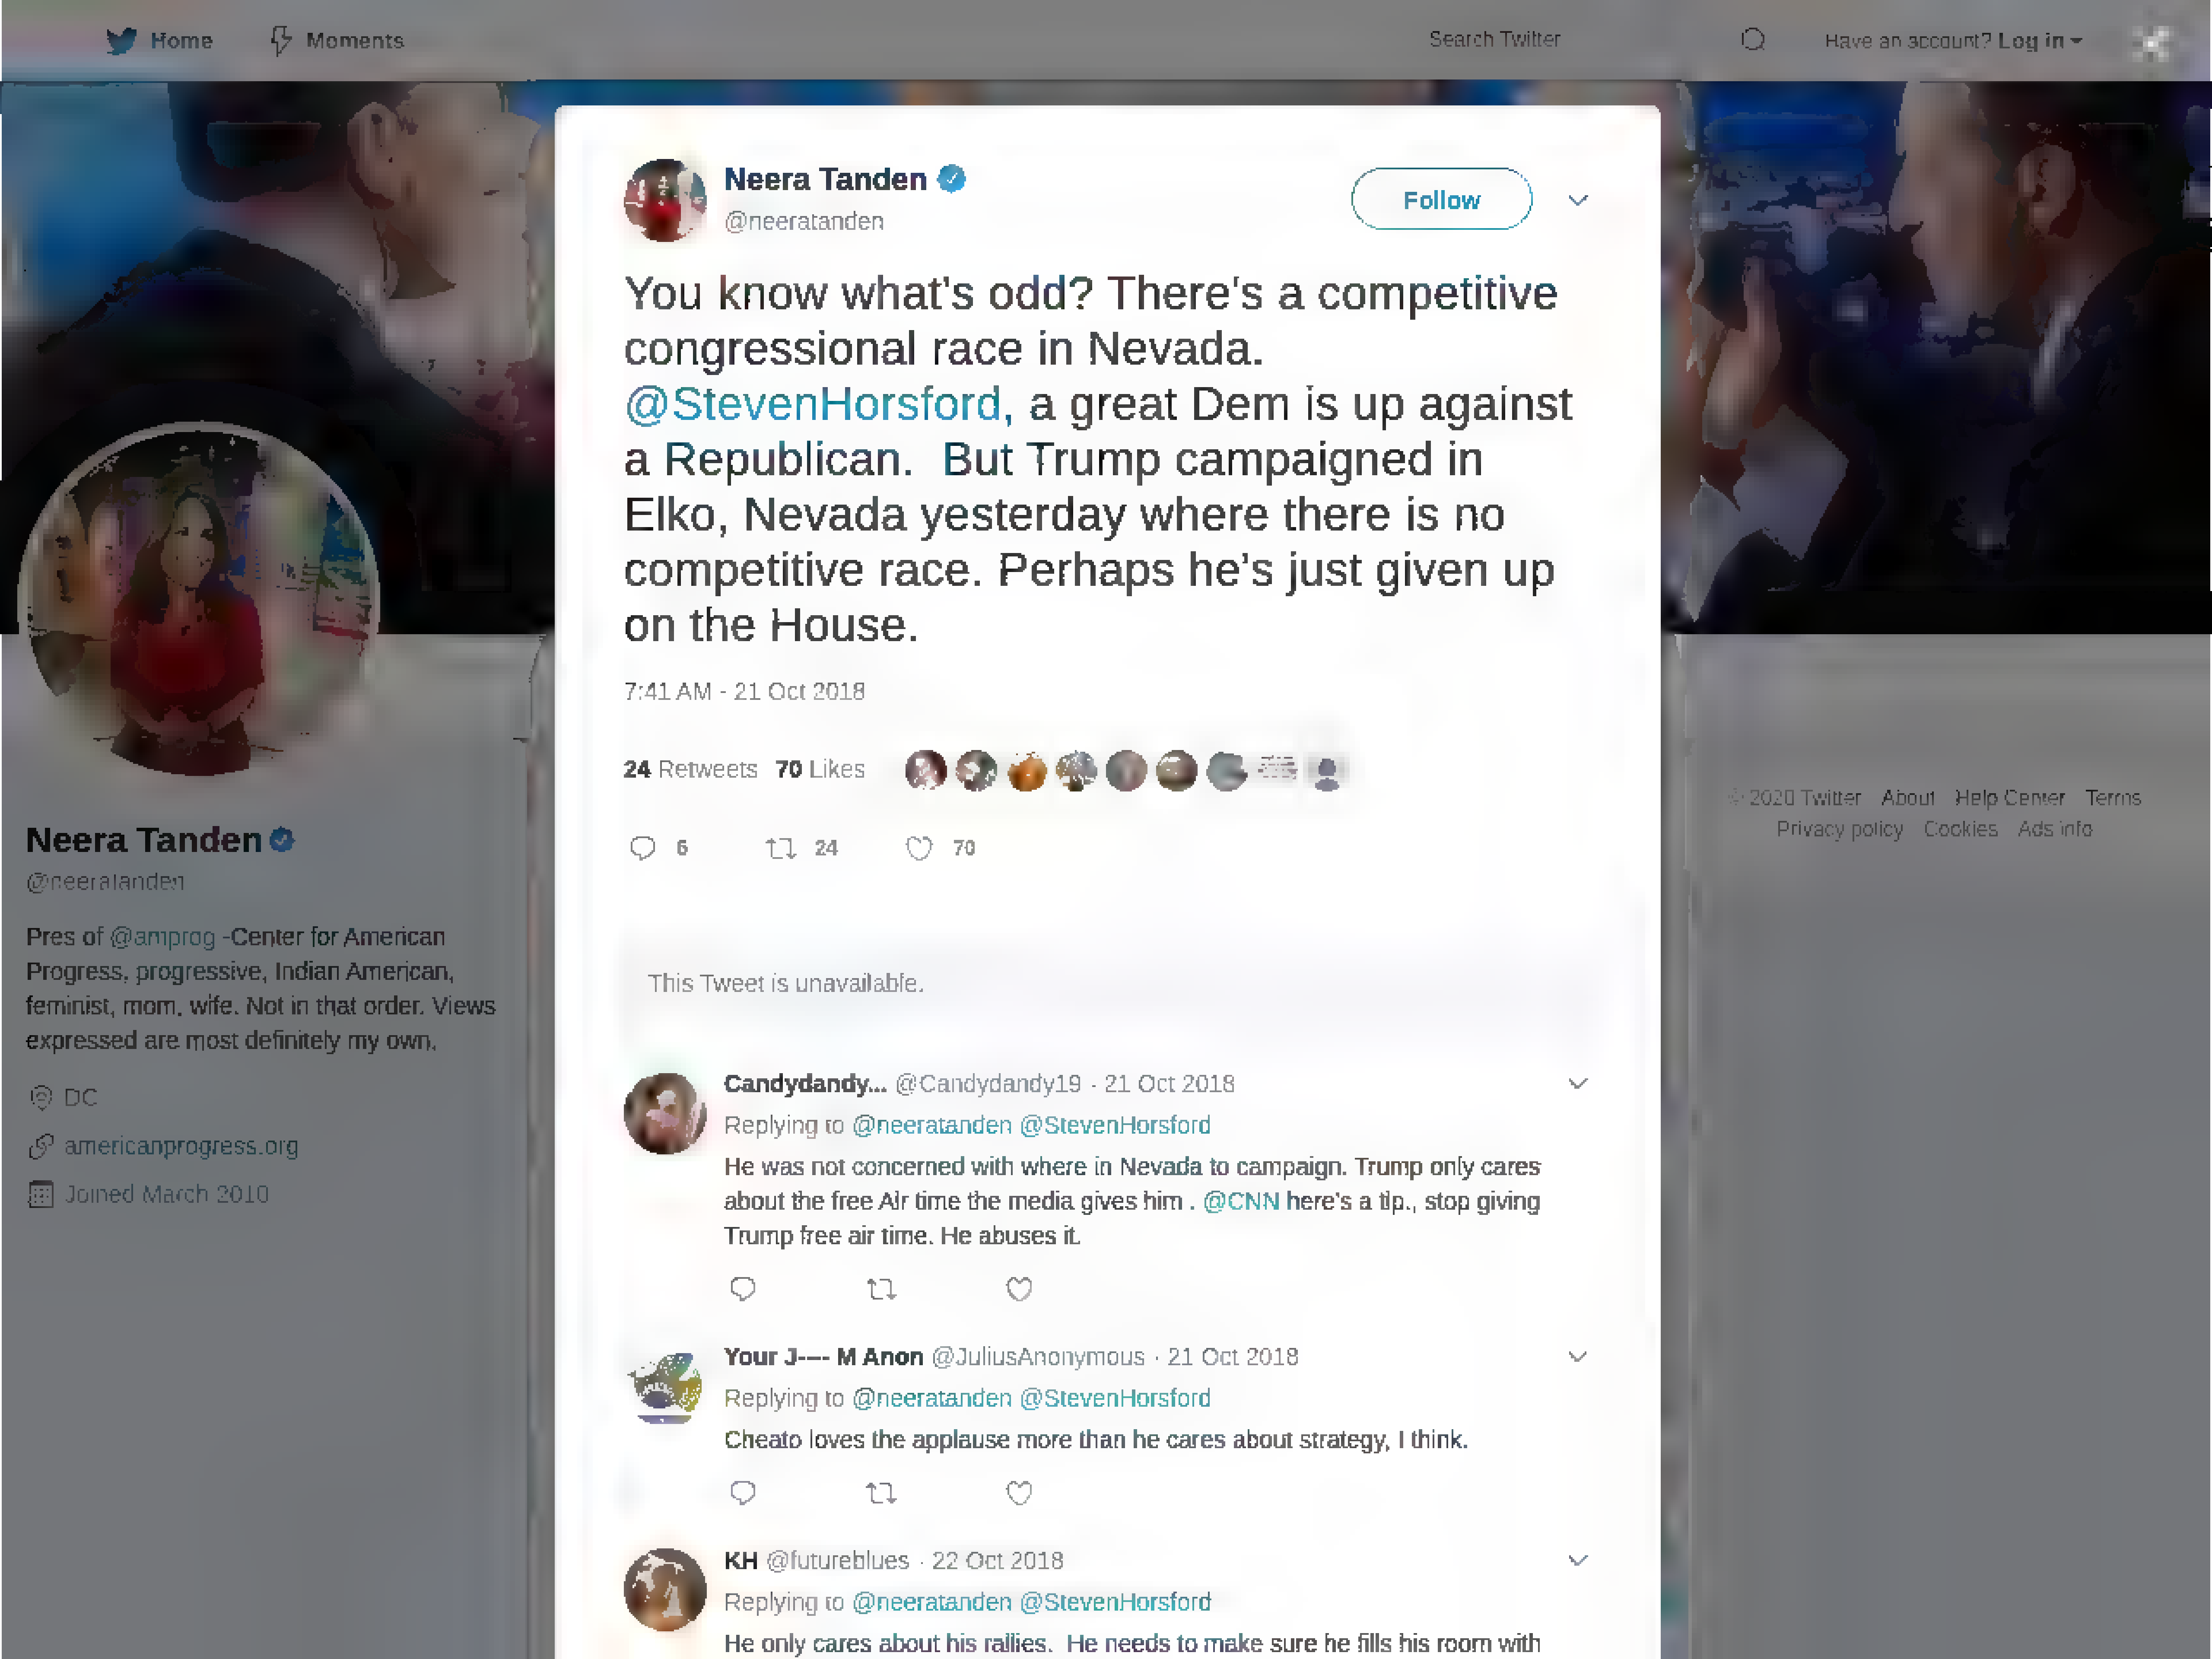
That's good. But, unfortunately, for each Bob Cross there is a working class stiff who used to vote D (or perhaps not at all) and who has switched the other way. Not because he or she loves the GOP but because they think that Trump cares about people like them. He speaks to them.



Neera Tanden @neeratanden

You know what's odd? There's a competitive congressional race in Nevada. @StevenHorsford, a great Dem is up against a Republican. But Trump campaigned in Elko, Nevada yesterday where there is no competitive race. Perhaps he's just given up on the House.

National media- why is Trump lying about a caravan or celebrating beating up reporters? Because they are seeing Dem enthusiasm surging, GOP enthusiasm not matching it and he's desperate to rile up his base to vote. May want to cover it in that context.

Nate Silver @NateSilver538
So, this is another poll where Democrats are doing better among likely voters than registered voters. We were seeing a fair amount of that in polls this summer, but less in September, when R enthusiasm had seemed to improve. Now more pollsters are showing a D turnout edge again. twitter.com/mmurraypolitic...

17 days til the Midterms. 3 weekends left. Tweeting is good; getting out the vote is much better. We will win in every corner of this country if we have the largest midterm turnout operation in history. That takes people. Campaigns need you. Happy to help you to help, just DM.

Why are Republicans lying about protections for pre-existing conditions? Because they know how toxic their decision was to gut the ACA. Why? Because actual humans don't understand how you can rip away protections for 100 million people and offer them nothing. So GOP lies.

Look, I'm a staunch Democrat, but I see this more and more from liberals – deflecting away from valid criticisms by bringing up Trump. It's exactly what Trump supporters do to deflect away criticism about him! Clinton lost, she shouldn't run again, and we can do better.

One can do multiple things at once. For years, Republicans have deflected criticism by bringing up Obama/Clinton. That's essentially what a lot of people are doing anytime a liberal gets criticized. Criticism is good and constructive. You can't deflect to Trump on everything.

That's the thing about McSally. She's a rookie.

Michael LaRosa @MichaelLaRosaDC
McSally struggles with a smooth delivery. She's defensive, aggressive, and yelling her answers rather than speaking them. Sinema is clear, crisp, and extremely calm and soft in tone. Doesn't sound rehearsed but prepared, confident and graceful in delivery. #azsen #azsendebate

Hi @neeratanden, it's Peter Maass here. You ask if I'm a liberal. Let me try to answer. I have friends and colleagues who were killed or injured in Iraq, where I spent some time. I have friends and colleagues harmed by the racism and sexism of the GOP (and other institutions).

Peter Maass @maassp · 17 Oct 2018

Backing the Iraq invasion and saying you were unaware of the GOP's racism and sexism for decades -- these show a deeply flawed ability to assess what's happening in the world. I am glad Max Boot will vote for Dems but don't think we should take his advice on managing the world.

Same poll in December 2014:

Clinton - 65%
Warren - 10%
Biden - 9%
Sanders - 5%

Not much to assess here, other than the obvious point that Biden is a far weaker "front runner" than Clinton was.

An example of the issue at hand: passion for Beto, against Cruz and a dismissiveness toward other races.

The polls often capture likely voters. Sometimes registered but unlikely voters show up. The Tea Party basically so much energy that people who typically stay home turned out. At the same time likely Dem voters stayed home. 3% becomes 9% in wave elections.

IIRC margin of error in these polls is ~4-5 points, so a 6-point difference seems within the realm of possibility without calling the entire poll into question. I don't know what the P95/P99 statistical breakdown of that margin of error is tho

Roughly speaking, the lesson was that polls have their better nights and their worse nights, but that it's a lot better to look at the polling average and size it up for yourself than to pay any attention to the spin/conventional wisdom about the polls, which is usually dumb.

This isn't that complicated. The polls showed Northam narrowly ahead. But for some reason, the conventional wisdom was that, despite the polls showing Northam narrowly ahead, the race was a tossup. Instead, Northam won in a blowout.

Polling tell only a small part of the story.

On the morning of Nov 6th, there will be many Texans who will wake up and be excited to cast, in many cases, their first vote for Beto.

our baseline is based on the post-trump elections. basically, better than '16 for dems among white voters. something halfway in between 14/16 for nonwhite voters, which in texas is a real problem. the poll is then adjusted based on who tells us they'll vote

This isn't that complicated. The polls showed Northam narrowly ahead. But for some reason, the conventional wisdom was that, despite the polls showing Northam narrowly ahead, the race was a tossup. Instead, Northam won in a blowout.

Neera, I have no idea how this will turn out in 3-1/2 weeks. But Beto is running one of the greatest campaigns I've ever witnessed in 50+ years of following campaigns. If he doesn't win, he's hardly going to slink away, roll over for the last time and die.

Neera Tanden @neeratanden · 12 Oct 2018
Polls had Northam down in VA and he won by 9. They don't know what the electorate is. No one does. If it's 2014, it's hard. If Beto is inspiring new people to vote, it's hard for any poll to pick that up. I believe it's the latter.

By far the Democrats' strongest region in Senate + Gov + House polling has been the Midwest, and I don't think you'd really gather that from the tonality of the reporting, which tends to fixate on demographic change and therefore finds races in the South & the West a lot sexier.

Friends in Ohio. Please get out the vote for Cordray and Sherrod. You also have a ton of congressional races that matter.

Political Polls @PpollingNumbers
#OHGov:
Cordray (D) 46% (+6)
DeWine (R) 40%

It will be a sad day when we stop feeling shocked by Trump's absurd lies and his astoundingly ugly, divisive statements,

If we stop feeling shocked by them, we risk become inured to them -- and in ways that means we accept them.

Not just that much of the MSM is squeamish about calling Trump a liar. It's also about how they ACT towards him. Treating Trump & Trumpists as the liars & aggressors they are would mean taking them on, head on. It would mean clearly acting - for example, shutting out Fox.

Shawn Peirce @_silversmith · 10 Oct 2018
It would mean taking on their fellows in the MSM too, for example, blasting those "news" shows who have panels made up of extreme right-wing, kind-of-extreme right wing, squishy 'Never Trumpers', & one libertarian - but no Leftys - as the propaganda BS they are.

CNN's new generic ballot poll has women opting for the Democratic candidate 63% to 33%. Gender gap is a net 35%.

What is the deal with giving so much attention to the "generic ballot"? It's not a real thing. Individual races matter, not what I (in Kentucky) think about the Texas senate race.

I don't think most progressive people see politics that way. Did the election of Obama give everyone who voted for him no return on investment? I don't think so. We need a broad coalition to defeat misogyny. I say we welcome all willing to do that.

Wow.

I suspect the @GOP knows this and what it's likely to cost 'em on 11/6/18. I also suspect their attitude is, "Fk it, we got the SCOTUS, so all's good."

Can you offer one piece of evidence to back up Ford's claim? All righteous justice systems require the voice of 2 or 3 witnesses, or physical evidence. Ford offered none. I feel for her and believe something happened sometime by someone...who? I don't know and neither do u.

Why do people take Susan Collins' statements that she was undecided seriously? Like if you saw Brett Kavanaugh's attack on other Senators as qualifying to be on the Supreme Court, this was never a real question for you.

Ted Davis @TeddyDavisLA
Kavanaugh's decision to "start at an 11 & to take it to a 15," appears to have won a #SCOTUS seat. After Ford's testimony, @SenatorCollins thought: "Oh, my goodness. He perhaps needs to withdraw." But Collins was impressed that Kavanaugh came back Deductive reasoning is an amazing thing. Did you notice McLean at the hearing supporting her friend? Why do you think she wasn't a corroborating witness? Given her FBI/DOJ background I would think she would be a helpful ally right?

I think Ford's lawyers did her a terrible disservice.They appeared to be acting in bad faith at every turn (from failing to inform Ford she could testify in CA, to failing to turn over to Senate the only info that had any corroborative value- polygraph info and therapist notes).

Angie @angiesimone123 · 8 Oct 2018

The suspicious 6 week delay by Feinstein in raising these allegations coupled with the dearth of any corroborating evidence provided by Ford both prior to and during the hearing leads a reasonable observer to think that these additional named witnesses are a red herring.

Sinema, Nelson, Donnelly will lose, probably McCaskill . Only Tester, Rosen and Manchin have a chance, but if Trump capaign hard, Tester an Manchin could lose also.

Trump suported Luther Strange who will probably win in Alabama. That was the leason for republicans. Similar to Arizona, McSaly, not Arpaio or dr K. Ward. Repulicans learnt [illegible] leason. And Conor Lamb... well DNC had a momentum then. Now, GOP has it.

What's clear is Susan Collins only cares about a primary challenger, not a general election defeat. She won in 2008, a wave year, and believes she can win in 2020 in the general. The only thing that will dissuade her in the future is if Maine House GOP members lose in 2018

Never forget what these people did. They used the FBI as a coverup for a person accused of assault.

Greg Sargent @ThePlumLineGS
Amazing. WH limited background check into Kavanaugh because it knew a real investigation could doom nomination, NYT reports.

(Never mind spin designed to distance Trump from this)

There is no greater normalization of the president than Democratic strategists going into the NYTimes and talking about Trump "winning" as he pushes thru a Supreme Court nominee like Kavanaugh on almost party-line vote with the opposition inflamed and growing.

Unless and until there are electoral consequences for trumpism, or for McConnell's nihilism, they are winning. I dont see how pretending that is not so helps to fix the situation. And a whole lot of what you say on this platform reflects that so I'm clearly missing this point.

It's literally a waste of time. The Senate will never be the deliberative body it once was with such Republican obstructionist- only hope is to overturn as much of the body as possible. Won't be done in one cycle but 2018 has to be the start.

I know that the lines are drawn between 'Democrat' and 'Republican' but the line isn't about political party.

It's about, "toxic oppression, abuse, supremacy," vs, "seeing the humanity of everyone who sees each other as human."

The fact that his lawyer had no further comment other than to say the FBI interviewed him tells a lot.
If the WH tampers with the report, all the lawyers for those interviewed will have plenty to comment. I think Judge threw Kav to the wolves. Is why they haven't interviewed Ford

I am amazed with all these "Judge will tell the truth and sink Kav" people here. Has nobody been paying attention. If the whole privileged white male GOP will lie for Kav (and 48% of Americans) why does anyone think his friend will tell the truth if it's negative for Kav?

Hey @mschlapp, just want to say, that I'm working to defeat Brett Kavanaugh out in the open, at rallies, in the halls of Congress and online. No behind the scenes about it. And one of the reasons is he's backed by people willing to use racist dog whistles and attack Dr. Ford.

They want us depressed.
But I'm angry.

They want us weary.
But I'm energized.

They want us to stay quiet.
Let them hear us roar this November.

We need to fight to take our country back.

All these Republican Senate men need to talk every day through to November 6th. This is what we are all dealing with.

Sean Sullivan @WaPoSean
Senate GOP Whip John Cornyn explaining why Rachel Mitchell stopped asking Qs partway through: "Frankly, I think there was some frustration among the senators that they thought there were arguments that needed to be made, that she frankly was not equipped to make."

Odd that @politico would regurgitate this spin when Kavanaugh's approval is underwater and further eroding every day

> Even a failed vote could pay dividends for Republicans, GOP leaders privately say, by forcing Sens. Joe Donnelly of Indiana, Joe Manchin of West Virginia and Heidi Heitkamp to take a position on Kavanaugh. All three have been targeted to support Kavanaugh after supporting Justice Neil Gorsuch, and all hail from deep red states and are up for reelection.

I think Liberals are done with arguments that Obama's actions brought us Trump. Totally done. The GOP and perhaps non-voters own this. Liberals who fought Trump in the election do not.

Straw man, @matthewjdowd. I didn't say that they were. I said Broadcasters/journalists inside "blue bubbles" are missing growing outrage as represented by my callers. It's an audience of millions but in a nation of 330 million of course it's not "representative." Not my point.

That's the point. Beto both believes racial justice is important and needs it to bolster minority turnout. Cruz ■ using it to energize his base, especially to white Republicans who may just be starting to learn about who Beto is.

Cruz sounds the same as he did during GOP debates a couple years ago. Same story, same tone, same Ted. He sounds like the adults on the Peanuts shows: "wah, wah…". #Beto: they go low, we go high. Stay on point.

It is. Per 9/17 press release from Hatch, Kavanaugh told Hatch that Ford may have been attacked but she's got the wrong guy. I find it easy to believe that all the "prep" Kavanaugh did at the WH was time spent concocting this alibi & picking a patsy.

I don't understand why Democrats haven't launched their own inquiry into Kavanaugh's debt. If it was gambling debt - which seems likely - there's a money trail. You can bet if a Dem had $200k in "baseball tickets" debt disappear someone from Grassley's office would be on it.

Usually the person calling in law enforcement is the victim, not the perpetrator, of the crime. So is the White House going to continue to block the FBI involvement?

Let's have an FBI investigation now. What is the White House hiding in stifling that?

This is a really intriguing story of how the current Trump lawyers are blaming the past Trump lawyers for not knowing what's going on. But what I think is so amazing is the NYT works in a quote by white nationalist Steve Bannon because they haven't reinvigorated him enough.

🚨🚨🚨🚨Is the White House basically arguing Kavanaugh DID do it but it's no big deal??? That is obviously disgusting but it would also make Kavanaugh a liar.

Greenwald misinterpreting data to undermine the claims of a strong black woman really shocks me. And what I mean by that is that it doesn't shock me at all.

Nate Silver @NateSilver538
The study doesn't show that. It shows that male players are fined more, but that could be because they misbehave more. (Indeed, from watching a fair bit of tennis, the men do misbehave more). This data doesn't tell us anything about whether they're punished at greater rates. twitter.com/ggreenwald/sta...

The campaign manager for many months who met with the Russians F Trump Tower has no info on the campaign? Oh ok that makes total sense.

Maggie Haberman @maggieNYT

John Dowd emails other lawyers involved in the Trump case and says of Manafort, "PM has no info on President or campaign."
